Instant lottery tickets stolen from gas station

Canton Township police are searching for a man who stole two roles of instant lottery tickets early Wednesday. No cash value was determined.

According to reports, a white male suspect in his 20s entered a Speedway gas station at Ford and Lilley roads at approximately 12:45 a.m., quickly gathered two plastic lottery ticket dispensers and ran from the building to a black Chevrolet. Officers later recovered a stolen 1983 Z28 parked just down Lilley at the Bedford Square apartment complex. The vehicle, police learned, was reported stolen earlier from Ann Arbor.

17-year-old faces trial

A Romulus man is expected to appear in Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Court next week on charges of assault with intent to rob while armed and felony firearm.

An examination was waived for Carlos L. McPherson June 28 before 29th District Court Judge Carolyn Archbold. McPherson posted 10 percent of a $10,000 bond.

He allegedly pointed a gun at two women coming out of the MKJ Bingo Hall in Wayne, 35412 east Michigan Ave., at approximately 9:50 p.m. June 18, according to Wayne police Lt. Mel Drews.

"The two ladies were exiting the Bingo Hall when they were confronted by a 17-year-old black male who was brandishing a gun," Drews said. "He demanded they give him their money. He fled the scene in a vehicle."

McPherson was arrested by a Wayne County sheriff after Wayne police notified other precincts of the incident. The suspect was stopped at Wayne and Ecorse roads.

McPherson was arraigned June 19, and a $70,000 bond or 10 percent was set.

Advance tickets on sale for circus

Advance ticket sales ($5) for the two performances of the Franzen Brothers Circus in Romulus will end on Tuesday, Mark Lewkowicz, president of the Romulus Chamber of Commerce, said today.

The circus will offer performances at 4:30 and 7 p.m. Wednesday at Romulus Senior Citizen Park on Bibbins Street. Tickets at the gate will cost $6.

Advance tickets are available at the Romulus IGA, local banks and many other local businesses.

Romulus firm seeks tax abatement

General Motors Powertrain Group of Romulus will be seeking a 12-year tax abatement for nearly $30 million worth of auto related machinery purchases and installation at the June 29 Romulus City Council meeting.

The massive upgrade of the Romulus GM plant was projected last year, when GM announced it would be doing away with its engine plant in Flint.

Illegal fireworks arrests explode in area

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

Illegal fireworks have popped up in at least three Westland locations this week.

Violations were issued to at least three area businesses on Tuesday, and Westland Police are on the lookout for additional illegal fireworks being sold in the city.

Westland Fire Marshall Bob Fields said basically any fireworks that lift off, move or make noise are considered illegal in Michigan.

Fireworks in Michigan must meet Michigan Department of Transportation "Class C" specifications to be considered legal. These specifications detail the amount of explosive content per individual fireworks.

"We try to get around to these places to tell them which are illegal and allow them to return them to the distributor or get rid of them."

Fields said many buyers are misled by dealers who tell them their fireworks meet Class C specifications.

"Not all Michigan Department of Transportation Class C's are legal," Fields said.

Legal fireworks include flat paper caps, party poppers, champagne poppers, whipper snappers, fun snaps, pop-its, sparklers, flutter sparklers, cylinder and cone fountains, which do not make noise or send any projectiles into the air, toy snakes and smoking devices that do not burst or produce an external flame.

Any other pyrotechnic devices would be considered illegal for sale, use or transportation without a permit according to Michigan State Police.

Fields said the fire department warns business owners the first time they find illegal fireworks and instruct them to get rid of them. If they are found to have illegal fireworks after they have been warned, they can be arrested, Fields said.

Death of long-time Wayne businessman is mourned

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Feature Editor

He enjoyed every aspect of life, but his most treasured experience was maintaining the position of head usher at the First United Methodist Church in Wayne.

Longtime Wayne resident Louis B. Wiles, 74, died June 17 leaving behind his devoted wife of 11 years, two sons, one stepson, one stepdaughter and many friends.

Mr. Wiles was a successful businessman. He opened his own plumbing facility in Wayne, Wiles Plumbing, in 1960.

"He was very proud of being a lifetime member of the Plumbers Union Local 98," his wife Kathleen Wiles said. "He had a great love for the outdoors. He also belonged to a hikers club."

Mr. Wiles grew up in the western Wayne County area. He moved to Wayne from Canton Township where he was born in the early 1940s, according to his wife.

What he most enjoyed, however, was being a member of the First United Methodist Church.

"He was very active in the church," his wife said. "He served as head usher for 46 years. When he retired last year, they surprised him with a big party to honor him."

"There wasn't a person at First United who wasn't greeted by Louis."

Mr. Wiles was known as a philanthropist. He was ready all hours of the day or night to lend a helping hand.

"He never complained about getting up in the middle of the night to help someone who had a plumbing problem," his wife said. "He said it was his call in life."

Mr. Wiles also enjoyed dining out with his wife and family.

"He was in a lot of pain at the end. He had heart trouble in December. At the end of December pneumonia set in both his lungs. At that time they found a spot. He took chemotherapy but decided to stop on his own," he wife said.

Mr. Wiles died at his home in Wayne. His wife and son, Gary, were by his side.

Funeral services were June 21. He was buried at the Glenwood Cemetery.

In addition to his wife, Mr. Wiles is survived by: Gary J. and Lynn B. (sons); Janice Wiles (daughter-in-law); Richard Smith (stepson); Bambi Smith (daughter-in-law); Pamela Arning (stepdaughter); Ralph Arning (son-in-law); Henry Wiles (brother); Phyllis Stahl (sister) and many nieces, nephews and grandchildren.

The 22 individuals arrested by the Wayne Police Department for accosting and soliciting are expected to appear in the 29th District Court July 7 and 12 for a pre-trial before Judge Carolyn Archbold.

Only four suspects did not appear in court for their arraignment June 30, according to Wayne police Lt. Mel Drews.

"The vehicles of these individuals were seized," Drews said. "They can retrieve their vehicles from Wayne County through a lengthy process, and they will have to pay a fine of $800 or $852."

Those arrested included: Brooks Leo Cunningham, 37, of Garden City; James Peter Dimitroff, 53, of Canton; Ian Kirk Hopkins, 45, of Plymouth; Gunther Krause, 44, of Shelby; Robert Marance Rucker, 35, of Wayne; Ronald Wade Shifferd, 33, of Wayne; Edmundo John Calvillo, 30, of Garden City; Charlie Welborn Hill, 64, of Inkster; Kerry Alan Howard, 40, of Dearborn; Jerry Eugene Hutton, 40, of Westland; James Charles Klomparsens, 33, of Canton; Frank Eugene Matarazzo, 37, of White Lake; Thomas John McGuire, 46, of Dearborn Heights; Gregory James Monticciolo, 37, of Canton; Willard Daniel Mullins, 66 of Romulus; Charles Edward Phillips, 56 of Bloomfield Hills; Michael Timothy Smith, 41 of Garden City; William Bonner, 37 of Inkster; Robert Edward Jacks, 31 of Belleville; Dennis Robert Karnafel, 35 of Livonia; Paul Joseph Dooley, 34, of Ann Arbor; and Anthony Wayne Curtus, 31, of Westland.

The professions of those arrested included a security supervisor, roofer, sales representative and a catering employee.

If they are found guilty, each could receive up to 90 days in jail, pay a $100 fine and be required to be tested for aids or other related viruses, according to Drews.

The arrests occurred between June 15 and 16 during a two-day sting operation in conjunction with Westland police at Venoy and Michigan Avenue.

Stalking trial set for local man

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

A 34-year-old Westland man has been convicted of spousal abuse and faces a jury trial for charges of stalking early next month.

Garry Joseph Abidin was found guilty of spousal abuse and sentenced to 90 days in jail by 18th District Judge Gail McKnight on Wednesday. A July 12 jury trial was set for the stalking charges.

Abidin was arrested June 17 following an alleged assault of his former live-in girlfriend of nine years.

A warrant was issued for a stalking charge on June 11 after at least three incidents involving Abidin, who allegedly harassed the victim at her Cowan Road apartment, were reported to Westland police.

The spousal abuse charge resulted after Abidin arranged to meet with the victim, who is the mother of his adolescent son, at the Middlebelt Road Ram's Horn in Westland, police said. After dining together, the woman attempted to leave in her own vehicle, police said, when Abidin allegedly tried to stop her by using physical force.

The victim eventually managed to get into her car and drive away, but Abidin chased her in his vehicle, police said. When the woman noticed a nearby police officer she began sounding her horn to get the officer's attention.

Abidin was later apprehended by Livonia police and turned over to Westland police officials.

Abidin is being held on a $20,000 cash bond. The stalking charge is a misdemeanor and carries a penalty of 90 days in jail, and/or a $500 fine and up to two years probation.

Transit system receives funding

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The Nankin Transit Commission (NTC) apparently has as many lives as a cat.

The NTC, which has provided small bus service since 1974 for senior citizens, the handicapped and the indigent, has been assured approximately $800,000 for the fiscal year 1994-94 by the Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation (SMART), the main NTC funding source.

NTC also receives local contributions from all of the communities it serves.

Richard Fernandez, a former Garden City council member and city NTC representative, praised SMART and Michael Duggan for "their cooperation and help."

"I don't think we would be here today if it were not for the cooperation of SMART, specifically, the cooperation displayed by Mr. Duggan," said Fernandez, who was named chairman of the NTC board of directors last month, replacing Wayne council member Tom Kelly.

"There is a sincere effort of cooperation between the two groups," Fernandez continued. "We have also put in place a management team to oversee the everyday operation of NTC."

Longtime NTC director Charles Hunter has stepped down and a team consisting of Fernandez, former Westland mayor

Tom Brown who is also a present member of the Westland City Council, Ralph Shufeldt, a Canton Township trustee and Kelly are responsible for the daily NTC performance.

"We have streamlined the operation to make it more efficient and responsible to the needs of our communities," Fernandez added. "We want to provide the best possible service available. But, again Mr. Duggan was the catalyst for this positive change."

Duggan is an assistant to Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, who was appointed last year by the county executive to serve as an interim general manager of SMART in hopes of finding some solutions to the financial problems of the authority. SMART had been on the verge of collapse and had sent inquiries to the Detroit Department of Transportation about a possible consolidation.

The consolidation talks remain in limbo until the Detroit mayoral race is decided, officials stated.

SMART receives funding from the Regional Transportation Coordinating Council from state and federal transportation program, but a year ago informed NTC affiliates it could no longer fund the small bus operation, setting off a chain reaction.

Consequently, NTC members - Wayne, Westland, Canton Township, Inkster and Garden City - were forced to review

Old soldiers never die

Parades, picnics and fireworks annually mark the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence by John Hancock on July 4, 1776, and the subsequent adoption of the declaration by delegates from the 13 colonies.

Independence Day has become a major patriotic occasion observed with numerous outdoor activities. In addition, July 4 has also been a milestone for farmers to judge the height of their corn crops - "Knee high by the Fourth of July" has been their rule of thumb.

Lest we forget, Independence Day also is a time to remember the contributions of the servicemen and servicewomen in all of our past wars. Their service and sacrifice through the past 217 years have protected and preserved our liberty and freedom, and have enabled us to continue to enjoy the benefits of living in America.

They just fade away

Brothers share patriotism

ANP Staff Writer

It's been nearly 50 years since Julius Miodowski was barraged with shrapnel on a World War II battlefield, but the Westland resident has not forgotten the day, or the war.

That shrapnel-filled helmet and the purple heart he was awarded as a result of the severe head injuries he sustained from the flying metal are tangible reminders of a time in his life he will never forget.

Both Miodowski and his brother, Stan, are past commanders and current members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) Post 3323 in Westland. Both brothers served in the armed forces during World War II in the early 1940s.

Stan Miodowski, 76, is also a Westland resident. He served in World War II from 1941 to 1944 and said if he had it to do all over again he wouldn't change a thing.

"I think it's a great thing for an individual to be part of the service. It teaches them discipline and gives them a better idea what this country gives them," Miodowski said.

Miodowski said he feels people don't understand the hardship of war like they used to when they could see men fighting in combat. With the new technological advances, Miodowski said many people don't understand the kind of destruction that occurs during a war.

Miodowski said Independence Day reminds him of his obligation to help those in need. A member of the VFW for 42 years, Miodowski currently serves as the chaplain, visiting the sick and needy in the hospital and in their homes.

Julius Miodowski, 81, is the oldest active past commander of Post 3323 instituted in 1936. He has been with the VFW post since 1947.

Julius Miodowski served in World War II from 1943 to 1945 in the mechanized Calvary. His most memorable moment from the war was when his company was ambushed and he felt trapped.

However Julius Miodowski's commitment to serving his country overrides any fears.

"I'm proud I served my country. We're still free - I'd do the same thing all over again," he said.

VFW Post 3323 has nearly 800 members and the Miodowskis are the only two brothers at the post. VFW members are active in the community working in hospitals, assisting other veterans and perform military burials. The veterans also sponsor area baseball teams, golf leagues and the Cub Scouts.

"Our post is one of the greatest in the country for the things we do. We donate between $28,000 and $32,000 back into the community per year," he said.

"It's our duty - it's what we're supposed to do," Julius Miodowski said.

Former sailor celebrates holiday

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

A former Navy man who served three years in World War II, is observing Independence Day in a traditional manner.

Peter Kress of Belleville and his wife, Lillian, plan to watch fireworks displays at several sites. They also attended a Family Day celebration in Van Buren Park to observe the holiday.

"I served in the U.S. Navy from Oct. 12, 1942, to Oct. 11, 1945," said Kress. "I was in Brazil, Scotland and England and was ready to go to the Pacific area when the war ended."

Kress, who is 71, said he doesn't do any marching, but he does enjoy watching holiday parades.

He is a member of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1590 in Florida and American Legion Post 225 in Lansing. He also is an active member of the Van Buren Democratic Club and the September Days Senior Citizens, participating in a variety of community-centered events and activities.

"I was a medalmaster first class. I worked with electricians, radios and radar. I repaired ships and worked with the Shore Patrol and in the mess hall. At times, I was in charge of 18 men. I did a little bit of everything," Kress said.

Kress has many memories of his tour of duty in Brazil.

"You could ride the running board of a street car for one cent. If you stood inside, it cost one-and-one-half cents. To sit down, the fare was two cents," Kress said. "Also, when I was there, I almost picked up a Portuguese Man-of-War from the water. A native told me it was poisonous."

Kress also relates a story about hiring Brazilians to perform some manual labor, and later finding out that he had greatly overpaid the men for their work by giving each of them 25 cents. He was cautioned to be more moderate with his payments, or the result could be an economic crisis.

"I don't think it was ever less than 90 degrees in the shade any day that I was in Brazil," Kress recalled.

Kress wanted to qualify as a diver, but during a dive, his suit tore on a can that had been dropped overboard and water began to pour into his suit.

"I never qualified as a diver. I was in the hospital when another test was given," he said.

War changed course of soldier's life

By AL POST

Jason Lovette of Romulus was ready to file for leave from the U.S. Army on Saturday Dec. 6, 1941.

"At that time, the Army was inviting those 28 and over to petition for leave. I was completing my plans that Saturday (at the age of 33) to file my separation papers the following Monday - Dec. 8, 1941," Lovette explained.

But the empire of Japan had a different itinerary that weekend. Hordes of Japanese planes attacked a major U.S. Naval Base at Pearl Harbor in Hawaii the following day forever changing U.S. lifestyles along with that of young Pvt. Lovette.

"The attack cancelled military plans to allow those 28 and over to leave the service," Lovette explained. And it actually extended the military age to 45 for those of draft age in the U.S.

The international political change also created a career revision for Lovette, who instead of leaving the Army after only four months service turned 180 degrees and decided to make it a 20-year career.

Lovette, who was processed into the Army at Fort Benning, was switched to Camp Wheeler, Ga., for his recruit training and then to Camp Swift in Texas after the outbreak of hostilities.

In 1943, Lovette entered Officer Candidates School and later graduated as a second lieutenant.

Lovette was sent to Camp Rucker in Alaska, where he was both platoon leader and supply officer.

In 1944 Lovette and his platoon joined the Italian campaign for 11 months. With the conclusion of hostilities in Europe, Lovette took an incentive offered by the Army and signed on for the war against Japan which guaranteed a 30-day leave in the states as a prelude.

With the war also winding down rapidly in the Pacific, U.S. military forces began getting ready for a decade of peace.

But that dream ended less than five years later when North Korean forces invaded South Korea and once again Lovette was called to combat action.

When U.S. General Douglas MacArthur surprised the North Koreans with a quick invasion of Inchon (far behind the Communist battle lines) Lovette and his troops were sitting off shore on a ship that was going to join the swarm of United Nation attackers.

"But the initial invasion went so well, we were never called into battle there," Lovette remembers.

Looking back over this two decade career in the military, Lovette said his proudest days with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization offices in Paris from 1953-56.

After completing his army career in 1961, Lovette began a second career in education and served as biology teacher and then principal of Ecorse High School.

"My military life gave me a unique ability to deal with all kinds of people as well as an invaluable management style while serving in the educational community," Lovette said.

VISITORS EXPLORE RECREATION OF AFRICAN SAVANNA

Natural settings are "in" at zoos around the country, and the Toledo Zoo has constructed a realistic atmosphere to display its animals and to recreate a setting to preserve endangered species.

With the encroachment of civilization on previously uninhabited areas plus the perils of droughts, natural disasters and poachers, the chances for the survival of many endangered animals seems to be with their reproduction in zoos. Consequently, zoos are attempting to strike a balance between preserving animals in a close-to-natural environment and allowing visitors to view and study the exotic species.

It appears that the balance has been achieved at the Toledo Zoo where visitors can view many exotic animals in realistic re-creations of their natural habitats.

Although lions, giraffes, rhinos and elephants are the most exotic residents of the African Savanna in the Toledo Zoo, a colony of meerkats seems to attract the most attention.

"Look at the prairie dogs," call out the visitors to the exhibit, even though the sign in front of their habitat is clearly labeled "meerkats."

Confusion is understandable, because the African animal resembles its North American counterpart even though they are not related. The meerkats peer out of the multiple holes in their compound and dart about the grounds, pausing to look at the visitors watching them.

The Hippoquarium is located at the entrance of the African exhibit, and is constructed so that visitors can view the massive animals from windows located under water. In an article on the "new zoos," the current edition of National Geographic features a picture of Cupid the hippo in the 55-foot-long Hippoquarium.

Also dwelling in the Savanna are leopards, Colobus monkeys and a variety of exotic birds.

Visitors to the Toledo Zoo can view some 2,500 animals representing 460 different species. Ten climate-controlled buildings, some of which were constructed during the Works Progress Administration and Federal Emergency Relief Administration eras, house the animals.

Two of the major attractions are the Kingdom of the Apes and the 17,500-square foot Gorilla Meadow which resembles the animals' native African habitat and allows the great apes to dwell in a realistic environment. After viewing the gorillas, orangutans and chimpanzees, visitors can compare their weight and strength to the apes as the Interpretive Center.

The koalas napping in the trees, the barking sea lions and delightful penguins are popular attractions with visitors. Youngsters enjoy the opportunity to mingle with goats and other small animals in the children's section in spite of the danger of their clothing and belongings being nipped - not bitten - by the curious animals.

A reptile house, bird house and aquarium also are featured at the Toledo Zoo. The aquarium is home to sea turtles, sharks, electric eels and hundreds of exotic fish.

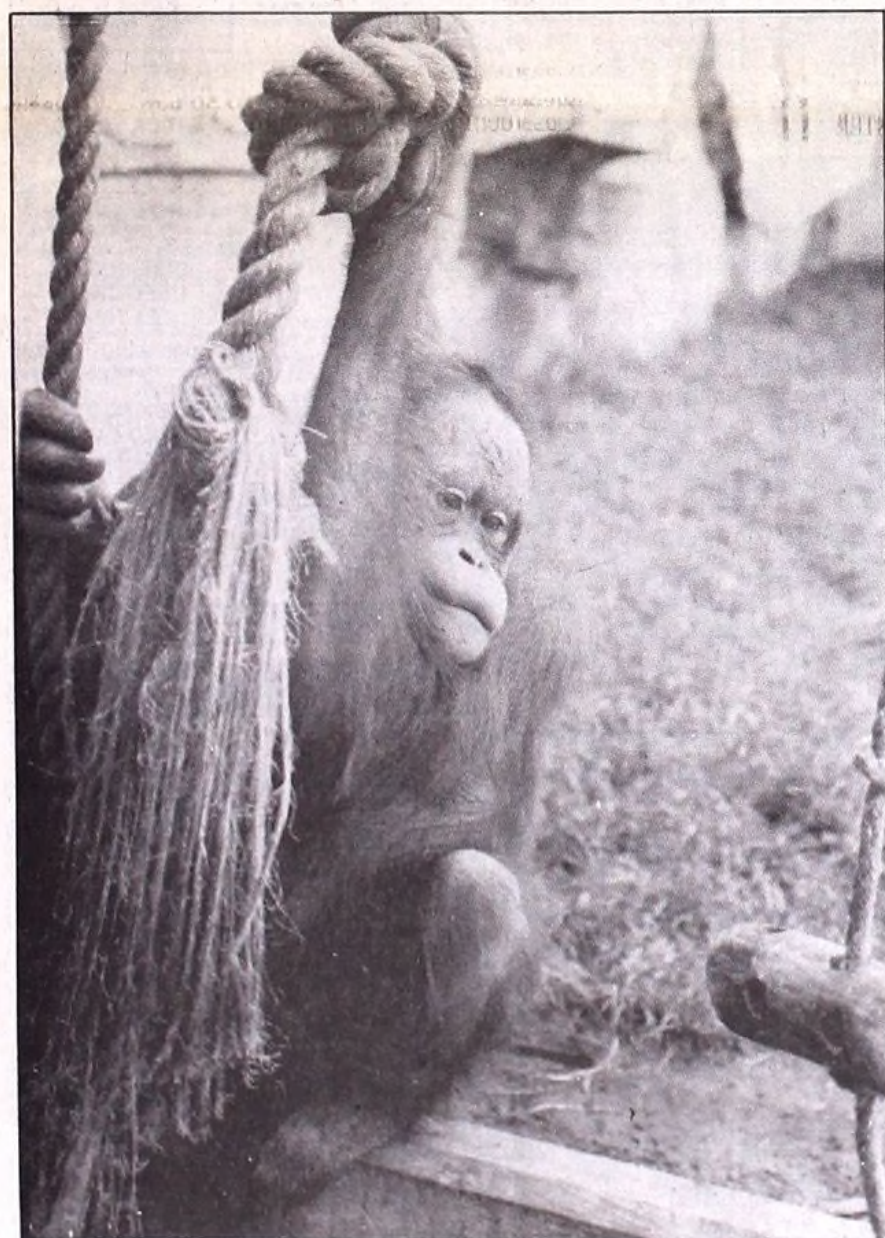

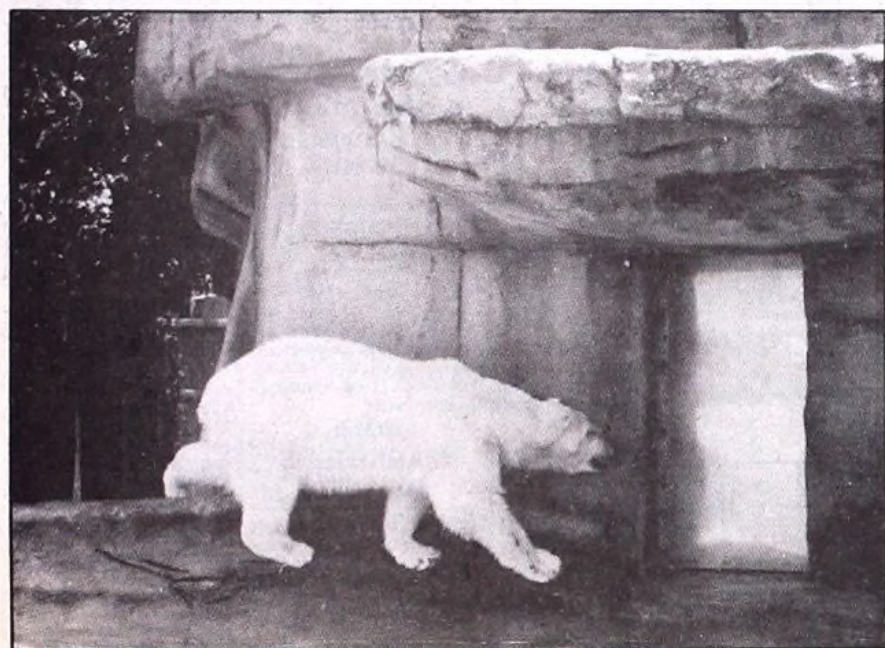

A unique addition to the zoo is the newly opened Carnivore Cafe. As one might guess, the restaurant is located in the renovated building that housed big cats and primates for nearly 70 years. The Carnivora Building, which was once considered a state-of-the-art animal facility, became outdated when advancements and improvements in animal care were introduced. Rather than to demolish the building, it was renovated - disinfected and sanitized - and then converted to a cafe with three restaurants.

Activities slated through the end of the summer include:

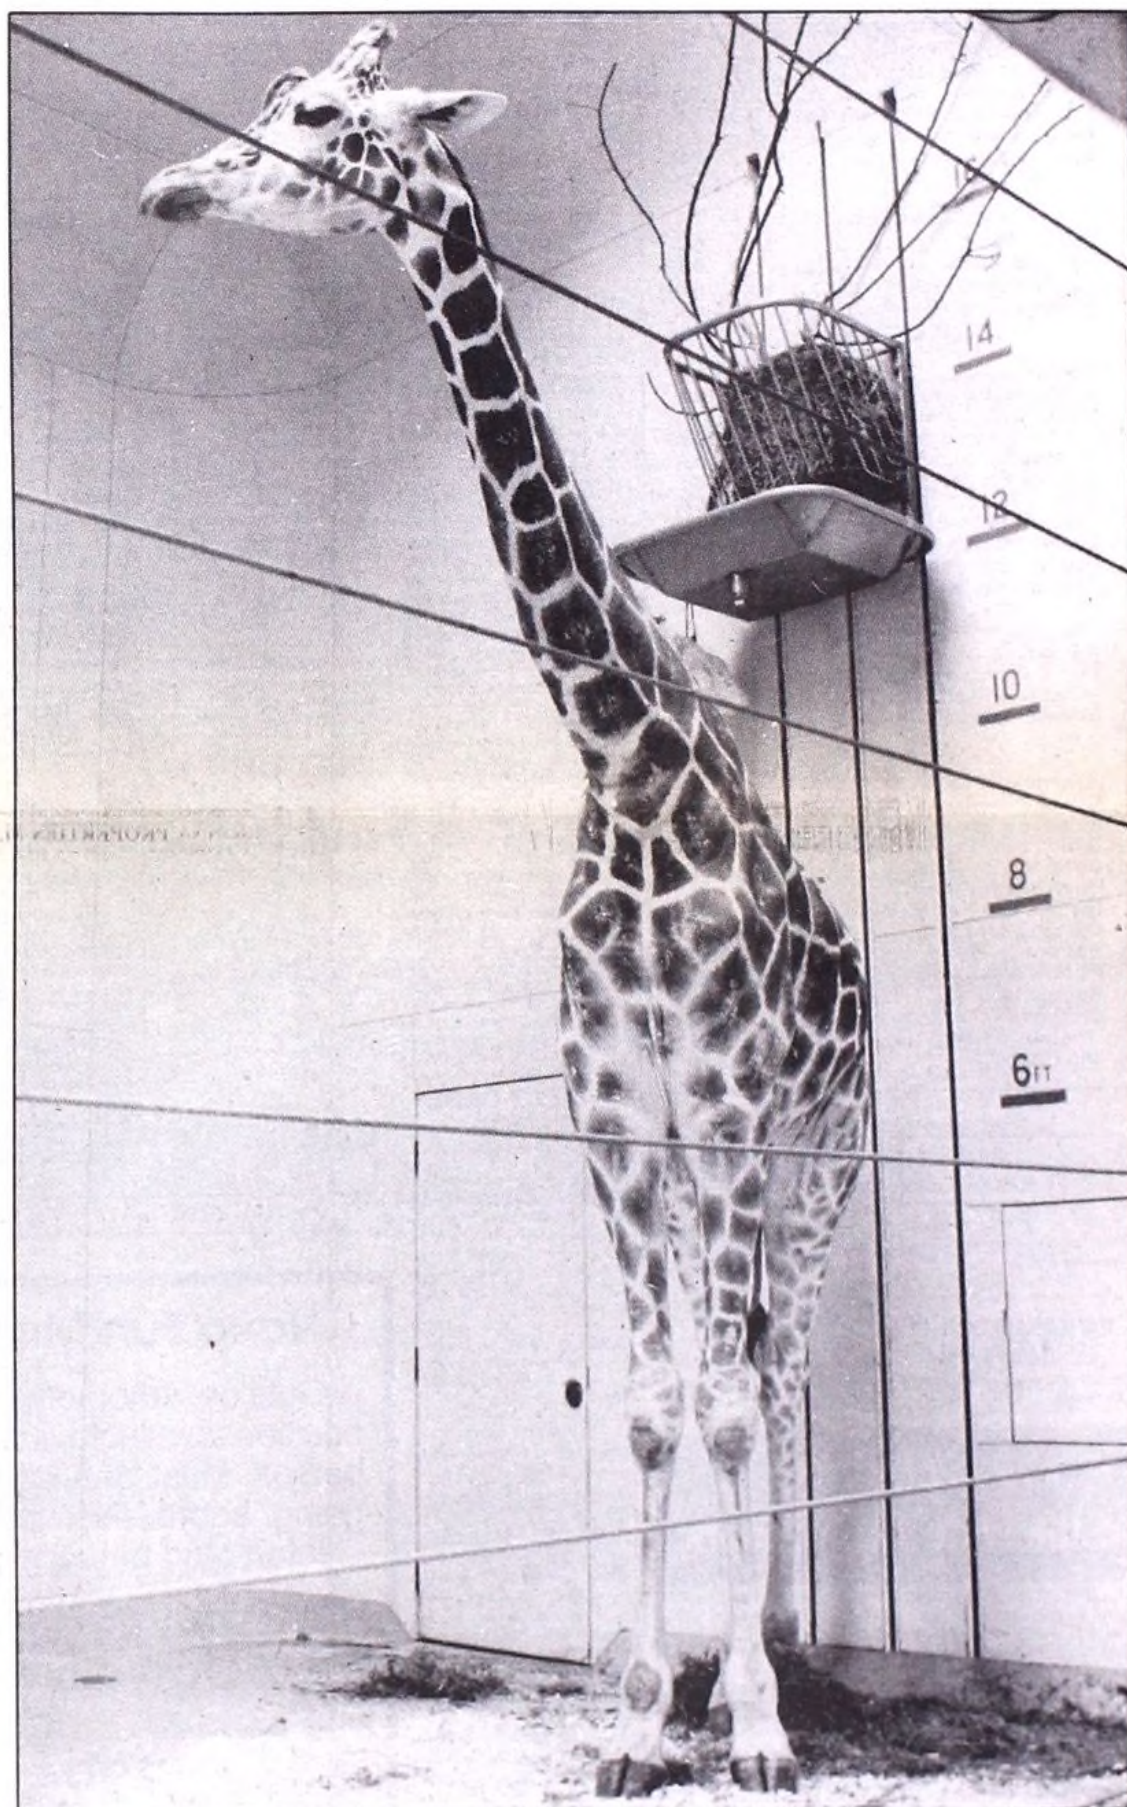

- July 10-11, Conservation Carnival, demonstrations about recycling.
- July 11-29, Music Under the Stars, every Sunday evening at 8 p.m. in the outdoor Amphitheatre.
- July 19, Radio Day with live broadcasts from the zoo.
- July 28, Lucas County Children's Services Day, activities for families.

The Toledo Zoo is located at 2700 Broadway and Anthony Wayne Trail, about an hour-long drive the Wayne-Monroe counties border. Visitors can take Interstate-275 to I-75 and continue to the Maumee exit. Signs point the way to the zoo.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Sept. 30 and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Oct. 1 through March 31.

their operation. They recommended increasing their rates, however, decided against it.

A series of meetings with local and state representatives, which involved state senators Bill Faust, George Hart, state representatives Bill Keith and Justine Barns along with Wayne County Commissioners Bryan Amann and Kay Beard paid off with NTC receiving funds to continue through 1993.

However, earlier this year, Inkster City Manager Thomas White informed NTC that his council had ordered him to inform the commission that Inkster would be leaving the group. The financially-strapped city could not find the $25,000 NTC had assessed Inkster.

"We just don't have the money," said Inkster council member James Collieran. "But, NTC has been trying to accommodate us. If we can find a way to make payments on a smaller scale, maybe we will work something out."

Kelly said that it would be a tragedy if Inkster left the NTC family.

"They are a charter member of this group," Kelly added. "We are working with them to see if we can find a solution. We hope that we can solve this problem."

NTA serves approximately 9,500 customers per month. It provides door-to-door service at the touch of a phone call.

"We believe that this service is sorely needed in all of our communities," Fernandez said. "This allows seniors and the handicapped to get around and do their shopping and go to the doctor without always depending on a relative. That is why we're fighting so hard to keep the NTC alive."

ual wanted.

"We're planning on conducting another sting operation in the near future," Drews said. "Prostitution is a constant thing in this town as well as in other communities and states throughout the country. We're tired of it. We're going to end it. If they want to play, they're going to have to pay."

Drews described prostitution as a triangle.

"You have the individual who is looking for some action," Drews said. "He approaches a prostitute who is looking for money to probably buy some crack. She has her boss who takes money from her to buy the crack and then the hotels benefit from her services."

ARRESTS

Fields said persons in the fireworks business usually rent a vacant building in the city to sell their goods.

"We try to get around to these places to tell them which are illegal and allow them to return them to the distributor or get rid of them," Fields said.

Owners at two makeshift fireworks stores were issued violations after Westland police officers inspected the facilities.

A Westland police officer noticed a fireworks for sale sign and stopped at the building to investigate. A 24-year-old male inside the building said he was renting the location to sell fireworks for a few days, police said. The officer noticed that the displays on tables seemed to be within the law.

The man admitted to having firecrackers and rockets, but that the fire department had removed them from the shelves. The officer found a Genghis Khan fireworks kit which included Black Cat artillery shells, a Sky Ryder rocket assortment, a box of Roman Candles, firecrackers, rockets and other projectile shooting devices were found in

Ford Vo-Tech Center receives free car

The William D. Ford Vocational/Technical Center in Westland recently received a 1993 Geo from the Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors to enhance the school automotive program, Vo-Tech officials said, and to afford students an opportunity to become familiar with the latest automotive technology.

So far, nearly 11,000 new Chevy passenger cars and trucks damaged in transit or by flood have been donated to schools for in-class instructional purposes. In the past 21 years educational institutions in most of the country have received donated vehicles for their voc-ed programs.

This program was started in 1972 when Chevrolet management started diverting damaged cars and trucks, that previously were scrapped, for training purposes. In addition to damaged vehicles, engineering test and pilot line vehicles not suitable for sale are included in the program.

The receiving school must, GM officials said, sign a legal affidavit acknowledging they fully understand that the vehicle is to be used in classroom instruction only and cannot be licensed, titled or driven on any road, public or private. Donation labels are affixed to the vehicles, and Chevrolet advises appropriate agencies that the vehicle has been removed from service and can never again be licensed or titled.

Service staffs at 22 Chevrolet branch offices keep a current request list from qualified schools. Once a vehicle is determined to be eligible for donation, the respective branch office obtains the necessary documents and approval. It is then the responsibility of the school to arrange transportation of the vehicle to their site.

that he instructed the subject to remove the fireworks from the location at an earlier date and observed the man do so, but the subject must have retrieved the items, Harder told police.

The owner of Westland Dollar Store or Less was issued a violation for possession of illegal fireworks after an anonymous caller tipped off Westland police.

Store owner Lawrence Ismair said he arrived at the store as a Westland police officer was inquiring about the illegal fireworks. Ismair said he let the officer look around the store.

The officer found two boxes of "Planes Flying at Night," four boxes of "tanks" and one brick of jumping jacks, police said.

Ismair said his wife told police the fireworks were not for sale, but rather for personal use. The officer arrested the 33-year-old woman for possession of illegal fireworks, police said. Ismair posted the $155 and his wife was released at the scene.

Ismair said he knows the fireworks were illegal, but he plans to fight the charge in court because he doesn't feel he and his wife were doing anything wrong.

"I'm going to fight it - it's not fair," Ismair said.

Ismair said since he was not selling the fireworks, he does not believe his wife should have been charged with anything.

Police also discovered illegal fireworks at a makeshift fireworks store at 38413 Joy Road.

When the officer arrived on the scene, a 34-year-old male allowed him to look around the store. The officer found 16 packages of bottle rockets in what he was told was an empty box, police said. The subject said the fireworks were for his own use and was arrested for possession. The man posted the $155 bond and was released.
